Haniel's Woods Nathan Stewart 2021-02-22 A world-weary university professor and an electrician with Autism discover they are on a mission as angelic souls to lift all life on Earth, assisted by dead comedians, angels of the highest heavens, and a mutual love for the 1980's. Christopher Wells (late 40's) hears the voice of Rodney Dangerfield giving a comedy routine inside a cave within a Sequoia forest. Jessica Rose (late 40's) hears 80's music while teaching Greek Mythology at a university. The two are brought together with the help of the angels and the hosts of the Seventh Heaven, Haniel and Ariel, who cause a rainstorm which forces Jessica and Christopher to take shelter inside a karaoke bar. When they discover a mutual love for 80's music and that they both have mysterious qualities unlike others, eventually they learn they have a unified mission to help souls in the lower heavens to rise into the highest heavens. The angels, Sandalfon and Metatron, act as guides to their lives and as narrators of their innermost thoughts and feelings. Sandalfon and Metatron are unknown to Jessica and to Christopher. A fellow professor, Isabel Tinkle, and her wife Jill, assist Jessica and Christopher into becoming the best mediums for their mission. Notes from the author: I envisioned Jennifer Aniston in the role of Jessica Rose and Johnny Depp in the role of Christopher Wells. There are many references to the movies Edward Scissorhands, and I like the irony of having Johnny Depp in that role. I envisioned Matthew Broderick as the voice of Metatron and Sarah Jessica Parker as the voice of Sandalfon to capture more of the aura of the 80's. Though Sandalfon and Metatron are seen only twice, it is only by profile, and all physical features are radiant light. I envisioned Rene-Jean Page as Haniel and Lindsey Stirling as Ariel. This work is a screenplay. It is a romantic comedy set in Fantasy.

From Birdland to Broadway Bill Crow 1993-09-09 In the 1950s, New York City's Birdland was the center of the world of modern jazz--and a revelation to Bill Crow, a wet-behind-the-ears twenty-two-year-old from Washington State. Located on Broadway between 52nd and 53rd streets, the club named for the incomparable Charlie "Bird" Parker boasted lifesize photo murals of modern jazzmen like Dizzy Gillespie, Lennie Tristano, and, of course, Bird himself, looming large against jet black walls. Exotic live birds perched in cages behind the bar. The midget master of ceremonies, 3'9" Pee Wee Marquette, dressed in a zoot suit and loud tie, smoked huge cigars and screeched mispronounced introductions into the microphone. And the jazz-struck young Crow would park in the bleachers till 4 am, blissfully enveloped by the heady music of Bird, Bud Powell, Max Roach, and a host of other jazz giants. From Birdland to Broadway is an enthralling insider's account of four decades of a life in jazz. Bill Crow, journeyman bass player, superb storyteller, and author of the successful Jazz Anecdotes, here narrates many moving and delightful tales of the pioneers of modern jazz he played with and was befriended by. We find Dizzy Gillespie, with whom Crow, because of prior commitments, regretfully declined steady work, dancing at the Royal Roost, Stan Getz sadly teetering on the brink of losing himself to drugs, and Harry Belafonte (known then as "the Cinderella Gentleman") running a lunch counter in New York's Sheridan Square between music dates. And we also witness many of the highlights of Crow's career, such as in 1955 when the Marian McPartland Trio (with Crow on bass) was named "Small Group of the Year" by Metronome; Crow playing with the Gerry Mulligan Quartet at venues like Storyville in Boston and Harlem's Apollo Theater (where they appeared with Dinah Washington); and the tour of the Soviet Union with Benny Goodman, a journey that might have been a high point of Crow's travels abroad but was marred by Goodman's legendary mistreatment of his band. Moving beyond jazz clubs to the Broadway concert pit and a variety of studio gigs in the '60s, Crow encounters actors such as Yul Brynner and pop-rock acts like Simon and Garfunkel. From the great to the near-great, from Billie Holiday to Judy Holliday, Bill Crow's wealth of personal anecdotes takes the reader from Birdland, to the Half Note, to the Playboy Club, to the footlights of Broadway. This revealing book is a marvelous portrait of the jazz world, told by someone who's been there.

Visions of Tragedy in Modern American Drama David Palmer

2018-02-08 This volume responds to a renewed focus on tragedy in theatre and literary studies to explore conceptions of tragedy in the dramatic work of seventeen canonical American playwrights. For students of American literature and theatre studies, the assembled essays offer a clear framework for exploring the work of many of the most studied and performed playwrights of the modern era. Following a contextual introduction that offers a survey of conceptions of tragedy, scholars examine the dramatic work of major playwrights in chronological succession, beginning with Eugene O'Neill and ending with Suzan-Lori Parks. A final chapter provides a study of American drama since 1990 and its ongoing engagement with concepts of tragedy. The chapters explore whether there is a distinctively American vision of tragedy developed in the major works of canonical American dramatists and how this may be seen to evolve over the course of the twentieth century through to the present day. Among the playwrights whose work is examined are: Susan Glaspell, Langston Hughes, Tennessee Williams, Arthur Miller, Edward Albee, Lorraine Hansberry, Amiri Baraka, August Wilson, Marsha Norman and Tony Kushner. With each chapter being short enough to be assigned for weekly classes in survey courses, the volume will help to facilitate critical engagement with the dramatic work and offer readers the tools to further their independent study of this enduring theme of dramatic literature.
